

What's Happening

We hope everyone had a great winter vacation. It was a pleasure to see everyone back at school in January and ready to begin a new year.

This month, the students will be busy learning about force and what a push and a pull are, in Science. In Math, some of the students are learning how to add, other students are working on subtraction and some of the students are learning about teen numbers and place value. In Reading, many of the students have begun reading sight words and sounding out 3-letter words.

Next week, I will be assessing the students for report cards. Since I will be doing this when I would normally be teaching directive, the students won't have much homework during the three day week.

I would like to take this opportunity to remind you to send in an extra set of clothing for your child, to be kept here at school. At this time, only a few of the students have extra clothes. It is difficult to find extra pants or shirts to fit our small students when one of them spills something at lunch or has an accident during the day. Please assist us in helping your child in these uncomfortable situations.

Each Monday your child brings home a poetry packet with activities to help improve your child's reading skills. Don't forget to fill out the log with the time you do these activities with your child and to return it the following Monday. Your child may benefit from this extra reading practice at home. Thank you for your help and support with these important activities.

Thank You

On the last day of school before winter vacation, December 19th, we had a winter celebration in the morning. We would like to say thank you to all of the parents and grandparents who came to help during these activities. The students all had a fun time while participating in the centers. We couldn't have had such a wonderful day without all of your help.

Also, we would like to thank all of the families who gave us gifts and cards during the holiday season. We appreciate your thoughtful gestures.
